WHAT IS THE REACH ALLIANCE?

The Reach Alliance was founded in 2015 at the University of Toronto's Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy, in partnership with the Mastercard Center for Inclusive Growth. Inspired by the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals, Reach is a student-driven, faculty-mentored research and leadership initiative examining how critical interventions and innovations reach those who are the hardest to reach: those living in extreme poverty, the geographically remote, administratively invisible and marginalized. Our research has been featured in leading outlets, and our in-depth case studies are available on the Reach website.

The Reach Alliance is a network of top universities and leading global companies committed to advancing the Sustainable Development Agenda. Together, we are uncovering the most effective ways to achieve inclusive growth and preparing a generation of leaders with the skills to make it happen.

The Reach Alliance recruits top students – equipping the next generation of leaders to produce actionable insights – and catalyzes impact through our institutional partners. Our talented cohort of student researchers is diverse; since 2015, 63% have been students of colour, with 19% identifying as Black. Women have made up 70% of our cohort, of which 61% have been women of colour.

Our program recruits student leaders across the world's best universities to investigate inventive, local solutions to pressing global challenges. The actionable insights being generated by the network of universities and companies in the Reach Alliance are advancing an inclusive economy, one that will deliver value to all stakeholders while enabling the success of graduates, companies, communities and countries.

MARIN MACLEOD

Executive Director, The Reach Alliance

In the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, global poverty and inequality are on the rise. Given these challenges, it would be easy to say that we don't have what it takes to reach the Sustainable Development Goals.

But what this last year has shown us is that the imperative to reach hard-to-reach populations has never been greater. Now more than ever, we see the opportunity for audacious leadership.

That's why this year's Reach Symposium is so important. The imperatives of equity and inclusion, illuminated by the COVID-19 pandemic and the Black Lives Matter movement, illustrate the necessity of forging new partnerships across sectors, and doubling down to reach the hardest to reach populations. We are bringing together leading thinkers and practitioners from around the world to collectively strengthen our resolve to reach those that are hardest to reach. And to walk away with a clear action plan on how we're going to do that.

At the Reach Alliance, we advance a culture of leadership that is bold, empathetic, humble, shared, transparent, inclusive and transformational, thereby enabling our collective aspirations. Reach recruits top students, equips the next generation of leaders to produce actionable insights, and catalyzes impact through our institutional partners. As the Reach Alliance scales to six select universities around the world, we're looking forward to sharing our latest insights with you, and to engaging in important conversations about how to accelerate achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals.

About Reach Alliance

A MESSAGE FROM THE MASTERCARD CENTER FOR INCLUSIVE GROWTH

The Center for Inclusive Growth advances equitable and sustainable economic growth and financial inclusion around the world. The Center leverages the company's core assets and competencies, including data insights, expertise and technology, while administering the philanthropic Mastercard Impact Fund, to produce independent research, scale global programs and empower a community of thinkers, leaders and doers on the front lines of inclusive growth. Our partnership with the Reach Alliance, at the University of Toronto's Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy, is a great example of cross-sector collaboration for impact. Reach recruits top student researchers and faculty mentors and applies academic rigor to close important knowledge gaps related to the Sustainable Development Agenda. The Center for Inclusive Growth elevates the insights, making them actionable and visible to public, private and third sector leaders. The partnership model is scalable, and we're bringing in other university and private sector partners to accelerate progress towards the Sustainable Development Goals.

SPEAKERS APRIL 29TH

REACH ROUNDTABLE: FROM A MOMENT TO A MOVEMENT

ZABEEN HIRJI

Executive Advisor, Future of Work, Deloitte

Zabeen advises the firm and its clients on preparing for the changing nature of work. Prior to this, she had a distinguished career at RBC, spanning senior executive roles, including Chief Human Resources Officer for 10 years until her retirement in 2017. As a champion of inclusive growth and prosperity through unlocking the potential of people, she advises senior levels of government and academia on diversity and inclusion, talent, and the future of work. A long-standing community leader, Zabeen also chairs CivicAction. She is executive-in-residence at Simon Fraser University, member of the advisory board for diversity and inclusion at the UK Research and Innovation Council, and visiting Professor for the Policy Institute at King's College, UK. Zabeen holds an MBA from Simon Fraser University.

MATS GRANRYD

Director General, GSMA

Mats leads the GSMA in supporting its global membership through a range of mobile industry programs, advocacy initiatives, and industry-convening events. Mats is a strong proponent of sustainability, and he led the mobile industry in becoming the first sector to broadly commit to the United Nations

Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in 2016. He spearheads initiatives to amplify and accelerate the mobile industry's impact on all 17 of the SDGs, across both developed and developing markets. Mats serves on the Broadband Commission for Sustainable Development where he chairs the Working Group on Digital Gender Divide to foster the equal inclusion of women and girls in broadband access and use. He holds a M.Sc. from the Royal Institute of Technology in Stockholm.

ADITYA RAU

Senior Analyst, New Digital Infrastructure and Fintech, Mastercard

Aditya's work focuses on digital currencies, open banking, and fintech. Previously, at the Mastercard Center for Inclusive Growth, Aditya led efforts to help policymakers apply data insights to revitalize distressed communities, and to facilitate access to and the financing of lifelong learning opportunities for workers. Prior to joining Mastercard, Aditya was an International Youth Fellow with the Aga Khan Foundation in Tanzania, where he supported an early childhood development program. Aditya is a Managing Fellow at The Reach Alliance and serves on the Board of The Rainmaker Enterprise. Aditya earned an Honours BA in Political Science from the University of Toronto. He will enroll in the MBA program at Harvard Business School in 2022.

FRANCA GUCCIARDI

Chief Executive Officer, McCall MacBain Foundation

Recognized as a global expert on merit scholarships, Franca leads the philanthropic McCall MacBain Foundation which provides scholarships and educational opportunities to nurture transformational leadership in students; invests in evidence-based strategies to address climate change; and works to improve mental health outcomes in our youth. Franca also leads the McCall MacBain Scholarships at McGill, Canada's first comprehensive leadership-based scholarship for master's and professional studies. Prior to this, she served as CEO of the Loran Scholars Foundation. She sits on numerous charitable boards, is a published author, and a Fellow of the International Women's Forum. Franca is a recipient of the CATAAlliance Sara Kirke Award for Entrepreneurship and Innovation. She holds a BA from University of Waterloo as a Loran Scholar, and an MA from Carleton University.

SPEAKERS APRIL 29TH

FLASH TALKS: WHAT ARE YOU DOING TO DOUBLE DOWN ON THE SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS?

EVA MWAI

Regional Director, East Africa, North Star Alliance

Eva provides leadership and strategic direction to provide quality healthcare to mobile workers and the communities they interact with. She has worked as a leader and manager in the NGO sector for more than 20 years and has led a wide range of programs in both rural and urban settings at organizations including

St. John Ambulance and Plan International. Eva is an advocate for deserving populations and is passionate about the last mile, especially the health rights of girls and women. She strongly believes that local communities have the capability of designing and implementing programs that have a positive impact on their lives. Among the programs she oversees are Sexual and Reproductive Health Rights and Prevention of Gender Based Violence. She was awarded the African Woman in Supply Chain Leadership Award in 2018 by Pamela Steele Associates Limited, an organization that promotes gender equality in supply chain leadership.

CHRIS HOUSTON

Director of Humanitarian Innovation,
Grand Challenges Canada

Previously, Chris worked for Médecins Sans Frontières in Papua New Guinea, Nigeria, Turkey, Ethiopia, and Pakistan as logistician, project coordinator, and Deputy Head of Mission. He served on the board of directors of Médecins Sans Frontières Canada from 2012 to 2018. He has worked for the Canadian Red Cross in Lebanon and Nepal, evaluating and overseeing health projects. In 2017, Chris managed logistics and operational support for World Health Organization in Yemen. He co-founded the kid-E-care pediatric urgent care clinic in Toronto and teaches the Complex Humanitarian Emergencies module at University of Toronto's Global Health Education Initiative. Chris completed his bachelor's degree in Risk Management from Glasgow Caledonian University.

KATE BANTING

Head of Social Impact and Marketing in Canada,
Boston Consulting Group

Kate drives and supports social impact initiatives across a range of topics, including measuring impact, diversity, youth development, and community engagement. Prior to her current role, she spent six years on the consulting side at BCG, engaging with clients across sectors including Social Impact, Travel, Consumer Goods, and Financial Services. Kate is on the Board of Directors for The Child Development Institute, an accredited children's mental health agency focused on developing innovative programming. She is on the investment committee for LEAP | Pecaut Centre for Social Impact, an innovator in venture philanthropy that catalyzes social impact by selecting, supporting, and scaling breakthrough social ventures. Kate holds an MBA, with honors, from Harvard Business School and an HBA degree, with distinction, from Richard Ivey School of Business.

ANDREW TRISTER

Deputy Director, Digital Health and Innovation,
Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation

Andrew's team's focus is to leverage integrated mobile technology and data systems to aid in the appropriate use and process of performing diagnostics, as well as to enable high quality healthcare and wellness solutions in resource limited settings. His team leverages advanced technologies and data science built around mobile devices as an interface to advance the goals of the foundation through internal and external partnerships. Andrew is a physician scientist passionate about leveraging technology to improve health care for all. He believes the combination of multiscale digital data from patients can impact our understanding, prevention, and treatment of disease. He joined the foundation from Apple, where he led clinical research and machine learning efforts in health for the special projects team.

Joseph held the Canada Research Chair in Health, Democracy, and Development for two terms from 2006 to 2016. He is the author of many academic articles and several books. Professor Wong has been a visiting scholar at institutions in the US, Taiwan, Korea, and the UK; has worked extensively with the World Bank and the UN; and has advised governments on matters of public policy in Asia, Africa, the Americas, and Europe. Inspired by the Sustainable Development Goals, in collaboration with the Mastercard Center for Inclusive Growth, Joseph founded the Reach Alliance, a model for student-led, faculty-mentored, multi-disciplinary research dedicated to investigating the pathways to success for innovative programs that are reaching the world's most marginalized populations. He is a graduate of McGill University and the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

THE REACH ALLIANCE: RESEARCH AROUND THE WORLD

● PUBLISHED ● NEW

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

The Reach Alliance is inspired by the United Nations' call to eliminate global poverty by 2030 as part of a set of Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) intended to transform our world.

Global extreme poverty rose in 2020 for the first time in twenty years. Now, over 700 million people – roughly 10% of the world's population – live in extreme poverty. When families and communities can improve their well-being and unleash their potential, economic growth accelerates and everyone benefits.

The Reach Alliance understands that to pursue the full achievement of the SDGs, delivery approaches designed to get “important stuff” to everyone, everywhere must change. Bold innovation and collaboration across all sectors is essential for success.

The 2021 Reach Symposium features Reach's latest research, including case studies from India, Kenya, Rwanda, Guinea, Mexico and Canada that highlight actionable insights on 11 of the 17 SDGs.

GLOBAL LEADERS CREATING KNOWLEDGE & INSPIRING ACTION

SAMRAWIT LEMMA

[Neuroscience and Immunology,
Faculty of Arts and Science,
University of Toronto],
Team Thailand 2019-20

"The Reach Alliance has inspired my thinking about how to impact my community in a meaningful way, a key goal of mine as a Mastercard Foundation scholar at the University of Toronto. Reach has shaped my ideas and approaches about how best to contribute and ultimately how to solve challenging problems. My experience at Reach was enhanced by my wonderful colleagues that fostered an open and safe environment throughout the research process."

ABHAY SACHAL

[Global Health and Peace

Team Zimbabwe 2020-21

"Reach has been instrumental in helping me prepare for my next steps. I've always been passionate about combatting climate change. Through my Reach case study, I'm able to learn about the processes and systems that create successful climate interventions, which has helped me become a better researcher and leader."

JOCELYN LAM

[Business, Saïd Business School,
University of Oxford], Team
India 2020-21

"Coming out of undergrad with an environmental science degree and then working in the tech industry, I wasn't sure how to find that happy medium of business and science, while still learning how to make an impact. Reach helped me learn the tools in social science and international development, as well as leadership skills that ground my confidence."

GIOVANNA VILLALOBOS

[International Affairs, School of
Social Sciences & Government,
Tecnológico de Monterrey]
Team Mexico 2021-22

"Inequality in Mexico is something we are raised to believe is normal. What happens when you are part of two vulnerable groups and no one sees you? If we want to end the normalization of inequality we must first understand it. The Reach Alliance is an incredible opportunity to better understand this problem, and will offer solutions to help break the cycle of invisibility for these hard to reach communities."

THE REACH ALLIANCE TEAM

MONI KIM
Research Officer

As the Research Officer, Moni oversees the research process and professional skills development series, and provides bespoke support to Reach's global institutional partners. She has over 12 years' experience working for leading development organizations to mobilize international partnerships with civil society, academic institutions, government and private stakeholders. These collaborations involved scaling up local and global responses to HIV prevention and treatment efforts in sub-Saharan Africa at The Stephen Lewis Foundation and expanding innovative youth entrepreneurship among some of the world's most marginalized communities. She has contributed to a range of critical public health projects that advanced health and human rights including work with indigenous peoples, incarcerated populations, vulnerable seniors and refugees. Moni holds a Master of Public Health from University of Toronto and a certificate in International Development from the Coady International Institute at St. Francis Xavier University.

KEENAN DIXON
Marketing Coordinator

As the Marketing Coordinator, Keenan oversees the case study production and knowledge translation process for Reach case studies, and supports brand building across Reach's online platforms. She joined the Reach Alliance from the Department of Civil & Mineral Engineering at the University of Toronto, where she was the Senior Communications Officer. Keenan holds an Hons BA from the University of Toronto, a Post-Graduate Certificate in Public Relations with Honours from Humber College, and her Project Management Professional designation.
